BOARDS AWAIT OFFICIAL WORD OF PWA GRANTS

Bulkley Wires C. H. May Of $36,900 Allowed For School Work

MEETINGS NEXT WEEK

Educators, Aware of Crowded Conditions, Anxious

Members of the city board of education and the county commissioners are awaiting official word from PWA headquarters concerning grants for the additions to the high school building and the courthouse.

Although the grants were announced Monday afternoon in Washington by Public Works Administrator Harold Ickes no official information has been sent either of the boards.

Meet Next Week

Both boards expect to receive the grants at their next regular meetings. The commissioners meet next Monday and the board of education meets next Tuesday night.

Educators, those persons who know more about the overcrowded conditions of the high school and Corwin street buildings, are in favor of immediate action. Charles H. May, chairman of the board of education, said the board would study all requirements and other "strings" closely before embarking on the project.

The commissioners were informed of the grant for the new courthouse addition through The Herald. Mr. May learned the school grant in a telegram from Senator Robert J. Bulkley.

Bond Issue Voted

The PWA granted $36,900 for the school addition to cost about $82,000. The city has approved a bond issue sufficient for the balance of the work.

A grant of $23,000 was made for the courthouse addition estimated at $51,550.

Stan's Face a Bit Grimmer Now

THAT funny man of the movies, Stan Laurel, half the team of Laurel and Hardy, is even more serious looking as he appears in Los Angeles court with his wife Virginia, in an attempt to settle their marital difficulties. The comedian asked for a divorce and his wife asked for $1,235 a month separate maintenance. She says he earns $200,000 a year, but he says he has many expenses.

Mrs. Simpson Granted Divorce in 10 Minutes

IPSWICH, England, Oct. 27.—(UP)—(By Trans-Atlantic Telephone)—Mrs. Ernest Simpson, American friend of King Edward VIII, was granted a swift divorce, in the small, dingy Ipswich court today. Mrs. Simpson accused her husband of infidelity. She appeared with witnesses and eminent lawyers before Mr. Justice Sir Anthony Hawke, presented the brief evidence necessary and a degree nisi was handed down immediately.

The public was barred from the courtroom at the last minute. It can be made absolute in six months, or even somewhat sooner in exceptional circumstances.

Mrs. Simpson then will be free to marry. The vivacious American's friendship with the king has caused endless talk of the possibility that she might become his bride.

The divorce was granted at 2:38 p. m., scarcely ten minutes after court opened.

Norman Birkett, attorney for Mrs. Simpson, asked the court if it was a decree nisi with costs against Simpson and Justice Hawke replied: "I suppose so."

The name of the co-respondent was not revealed, although she was named in the petition.

The charge presented by counsel for Mrs. Simpson said that: "Ernest Simpson stayed with a woman at the Hotel De Paris at Bray in Berkshire on the night of July 21, 1936."

Evidence was given by two waiters who testified that they took breakfast to the bedroom of Simpson and the unnamed woman on the mornings of July 22 and 23, 1936, where they saw Ernest Simpson and a woman.

Granting of her divorce may be expected to increase the flow of speculation in exclusive circles over the possibility of a marriage to the king.

The general public is not aware of the gossip and the papers have imposed a rigid censorship on themselves.

However, if the talk does become general knowledge, there may be much resentment over the possibility of the king marrying a twice-divorced woman. Mrs. Simpson previously was granted a divorce from Lieut. Wingfield Spencer Jr., at Warrenton, Va., in December, 1927, charging her husband with desertion and non-support.

4,000 Listen At Howard U. to Plea for Races

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(UP)—President Roosevelt concentrated the final phase of his campaign today on a drive to capture the electoral votes of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Delaware.

Armed with half a dozen "fighting speeches," he will leave tonight to begin a speaking tour that will take him into the four states claimed by Republicans for Gov. Alf M. Landon.

In his first address to an all-Negro audience since the beginning of the campaign, Mr. Roosevelt yesterday told 4,000 persons at dedication of a chemistry building at Howard university, that "there should be no forgotten men and no forgotten races."

He described the building, erected by the Public Works Administration at a cost of $626,000, as "the happy conjunction of two important federal government programs to meet the difficulties of the depression."

To Statue of Liberty

Mr. Roosevelt, aboard his campaign special, will move into New Jersey first, stopping at Bayonne, a strong industrial center. There he will board a ferry to Bedloe's Island in New York harbor to participate in exercises commemorating the Statue of Liberty.

Although White House attaches insist his address will be "non-political," some close friends believed he will set forth again the objectives of his administration's foreign policies as a reply to Gov. Landon.

After a full day in New York Mr. Roosevelt will entrain for a whirlwind tour through Pennsylvania. Cheered by reports from Sen. Joseph Guffey that he would carry Pennsylvania by 250,000 he arranged to canvass the mining areas and Philadelphia.

At Wilkes Barre Thursday the president will join in a ceremony honoring the memory of John Mitchell, one of the early miners' union leaders. From that city he will go to Harrisburg to elaborate on his Omaha farm speech before turning eastward for Philadelphia, Camden, N. J., and Wilmington, Del.

He will motor from Philadelphia to Camden and deliver a brief speech at the latter place. On his (Continued on Page Eight)

TWO ARMED MEN FLEE UNDER FIRE NEAR CINCINNATI

CINCINNATI, Oct. 27.—(UP)—Two men escaped today under fire of Hamilton county police after they had been surprised on a country road in an automobile that authorities described as "a rolling arsenal."

Police investigated the possibility that one of the men may have been Al Brady, Indiana desperado. Police believed they had wounded both men.

Two women companions and a 16-year-old youth, alleged accomplices of the pair, were held in jail. Two girls who pointed out the automobile to police were released.

The sheriff's office was notified that two men, two women, two girls and a boy were in a suburban inn and that the men were "shooting up the place." When Deputy Albert Fischer arrived at the place, they had gone but there were several bullet holes in the floor, and a broken table.

Refused More Drinks

Clarence Flick, the proprietor, said the shooting started when he refused to serve them more drinks.

Fischer said he found the two girls who said they had been thrown from the automobile. One of the girls said her shoe had been nicked by a bullet. They said one of the men told them he was George Daffron of Indianapolis.

Later the girls pointed the gunmen's car out to officers. The occupants were ordered out. While County Patrolmen John Schulte and Anthony Minda were frisking the men, the women walked between them and the officers. Then the two men made a break. The officers did not fire immediately for fear of hitting the women or the boy.

Hays Named in Charge Of Security Act Work

Cards To Be Mailed To All Persons Eligible Under Federal Law

RETURN TO POSTOFFICE

Old Age Benefit Program Effective January 1

Postmaster A. Hulise Hays was given another duty, Tuesday, when the Social Security Board announced his designation as head of the old age benefit enrollment in the area served by the Circleville postoffice. Application cards will soon be sent to all persons employed in commerce and industry who in turn will be required to file the cards at the postoffice.

Although the security board announced his appointment, Mr. Hays has not yet received notice of the action.

Each applicant will be issued an enrollment card giving his name and number. A record card to show amounts each person is paying in jointly with his employer toward old age pension at 65 years of age will be made out in the postoffice and sent to Social Security Board headquarters.

To Concern Eligibles

Insofar as possible, distribution of cards will be only among eligible persons, avoiding agricultural, domestic, civil and non-profit religious and charitable organization employees. Substitute postal carriers and clerks will be used as much as possible for the enrollment.

The Social Security Board plans to have the distribution cards well underway by Nov. 15, although it may not start until a little later in some localities due to the problem involved in distributing millions of such cards through the nation's postoffices.

The deadline for filing cards is January 1, the date old age benefits payroll tax becomes effective. This is the tax, half paid by employer and half by employee, provided in the federal Social Security Act.

AMERICAN SHIP ENDANGERED BY ATLANTIC GALE

DUBLIN, Ireland, Oct. 27.—(UP)—Fierce gales whipping the Irish sea to dangerous fury held the United States lines vessel American Shipper helpless at noon today at her temporary anchorage in the shelter of a cove off Dublin with 22 passengers aboard.

The situation of the vessel caused rising concern where as tugs sent to her rescue were forced to return to Dublin, less than five miles from where the ship rode the mountainous waves at anchor.

The ship, her rudder out of commission in the high storm, was towed to her anchorage during the height of the gale which has kept her a its mercy for more than 36 hours. Officials of the line, however, said the ship was in no immediate danger.

Abatement of the heavy seas running with the wind was awaited by tugboats, which again will go to her relief as soon as they can be of assistance and tow her either into Dublin for repairs or take her to her dock at Liverpool.

WORKERS TOLD FORD TO CANCEL PART CONTRACTS

Complaint Reported From Timken Bearing Co. in Columbus

GLAVIS SENT TO STATE

Landon's Election Sought by Manufacturer

While no outright coercion of voters has taken place in Circleville, so far as is known, at least one company is putting Republican campaign material into the pay envelopes of all employees.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(UP)—The senate campaign committee ordered inquiry today into charges that Ohio workers were told that Henry Ford, Michigan industrialist and supporter of Gov. Alf. M. Landon, would cancel orders for automobile parts if President Roosevelt was re-elected.

A complaint to the committee charged political coercion of employees. The Ford assertion allegedly was made to employees of the Timken Roller Bearing Co., at Columbus, O.

The Ohio charges marked the fourth state in which the committee has revealed its activities have been extended. Previously inquiries have been made in Maine, Pennsylvania and Michigan.

Glavis in State

The committee ordered Chief Investigator Louis R. Glavis to examine the Ohio situation to determine whether similar tactics were being pursued by other employers. Investigators are already in the field in Ohio, the committee said, and the charges are being referred to the justice department.

The complaint said that company employees at the Columbus meeting were informed that if Gov. Landon was not elected the company's plan would collapse.

The employees were told, the announcement added, that policies being pursued by the Democratic administration were permitting the importation of bearings from abroad which would ruin the company's business.

"This policy no doubt will be followed by other business officials in this district and in other parts of the country," the complaint was quoted as saying in the committee statement.

To Determine Law

The committee plans to take no action other than to refer the complaint to the department of justice to determine whether federal or state laws have been violated, the announcement concluded.

LANDON TO PLAY SPOILS SYSTEM IN TALK TODAY

Pittsburgh Is Scene Of Next Major Speech By Nominee

"MACHINE" ATTACKED

Madison Square Garden Ends Eastern Swing

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 27 — (UP) — Gov. Alf M. Landon led the Republican offensive against the New Deal into this industrial center today for a major address expected to play the administration on charges of having shackled the United States with a vast spoils system.

Backing up his accusation at Philadelphia last night that President Roosevelt must assume responsibility for unconstitutional waste of the peoples' money to create a "sinister political machine," the Republican presidential nominee planned to assail the tactics of Democratic Chairman James A. Farley tonight in his final bid for Pennsylvania's 36 electoral votes.

It was understood that what his aides termed "Farleyism" would be the chief point of the Kansas governor's attack, coupled with his own pledge to improve and extend civil service to virtually every branch of the government.

In striking into Pittsburgh, Governor Landon approached the climax of his campaign for the presidency — an appearance at New York's Madison Square Garden Thursday night for a final summation of the issues of the 1936 contest before he turns back toward Kansas to cast his vote.

The nominee was declared by party leaders as greatly impressed by the demonstrations which have greeted him in the Midwest and on his swing through the eastern states; and as confident that victory was within the grasp of the Republican party.

Over 2,000 Pumpkin Show visitors attended the attractive exhibit of the National Guildcrafters, held in Memorial Hall last week. The Cincinnati chapter of the organization sponsored the exhibit, which was arranged in the relic room on the second floor.

H., Chillicothe and Cincinnati, Urbana, Ashville, Martinsville, Kingston, Mt. Sterling and Laurelville.

In addition to this contribution of Guildcraft products to the Pumpkin Show—man of the Circleville chapter members and Sponsors were represented in the Fine Arts cash prize contest. Among those winning prizes are: Iola Wentworth, Ted Steele, Ann Denman, Betty Colville, Emily Gunning and Ruth Robinson.

Persons in attendance at the booth from Columbus included Mrs. Wilma Pusecker, Columbus craftsman, Mrs. E. M. Denton, Mr. W. Hal Marshall and Mr. Karl S. Bolander from the home office.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF OHIO
Proposing an amendment to the constitution of Ohio by amending section 3 of article XIII of said constitution so as to eliminate therefrom the additional liability of the stockholders of corporations authorized to receive money on deposit.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to each house thereof agreeing thereto:

That there shall be submitted to the electors of the state, for their approval or rejection, in the manner provided by the constitution and laws of this state, at the general election on the Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1936, a proposal to amend the constitution of Ohio by striking out of section 3 of article XIII thereof the following language, to wit: "except that stockholders of corporations authorized to receive money on deposit shall be held individually responsible, equally and ratably, and not one for another, for all contracts, debts, and engagements of such corporations, to the extent of the amount of their stock therein, at the par value thereof, in addition to the amount invested in such shares"; by correcting the punctuation of said section accordingly; and by adopting a schedule governing the going into effect of said amendment, said section as it would be when so amended and said schedule thereto being as follows:

"Section 3. Dues from private corporations shall be secured by such means as may be prescribed by law, but in no case shall any stockholder be individually liable otherwise than for the unpaid stock owned by him or her. No corporation not organized under the laws of this state, or of the United States, or person, partnership or association shall use the word 'bank', 'banker' or 'banking', or words of similar meaning, in any foreign language, as a designation or name under which business may be conducted in this state unless such corporation, person, partnership or association shall submit to inspection, examination and regulation as may hereafter be provided by the laws of this state."

SCHEDULE
If the foregoing amendment shall be adopted it shall take effect July 1, 1937, and existing section 3 of article XIII of the constitution shall thereupon be repeated and annulled: be it further
Resolved, That the required publication of the said proposed amendment and schedule shall be made by the secretary of state.
Adopted April 2, 1936.

VOICE...of the...PEOPLE

October 26, 1936

TO THE EDITOR:
In your issue of the Circleville Herald on Tuesday, October 20, 1936, there appeared in the columns of your newspaper a letter purporting to be signed by a 'Sportsman'. Being the oldest member in point of service of the League of Ohio Sportsmen in Pickaway county, I was naturally attracted to the letter and read it very carefully. A reading of the letter immediately disclosed that it was not a letter but merely a verbatim copy of one of the many Davey propaganda pamphlets that had been sent out through the State of Ohio by one of his appointees. The contents of the pamphlet are not true and that perhaps is the reason the so-called 'Sportsman' refused to sign his name to it.

'Sportsmen' generally are well aware of the way they were double crossed by Mr. Davey; the Governor, in his campaign two (2) years ago promised to call a conference of the leading conservationists and be guided by their advice in the selection of a conservation commissioner. He called such a meeting, but instead of taking the advice of leading conservationists he merely introduced "The Next Conservation Commissioner".

Mr. Davey promised to take the Conservation Commission out of the hands of politicians, but on the contrary the pay roll has been loaded with political appointees and the hunters' and fishermen's money has been squandered. The following is a statement of the disbursement of the hunters' and fishermen's money. The total receipts for the year 1935 amounted to $512,201.87. Out of this income $357,971.64 was used for salaries and wages; $70,039.09 was used for traveling expenses; $36,204.86 was used for automobiles and automobile equipment; making a total of $464,215.59. You can readily see that $47,986.28 was the amount left for propagation of fish and game. Another thing that most sportsmen are not familiar with is this. When Mr. Davey assumed office the Conservation Commission had a credit balance of $613.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto subscribed my name and affixed my official seal at Columbus, Ohio, this 19th day of September, A. D. 1936.

Secretary of State.

415.66. The balance a year later was only $379,097.02. They spent $234,353.74, more than they took in. The total expenditures for 1935 amounted to $650,213.60. At this rate the half million dollars accrued credits will be gone at the end of this year. And the sad fact about the administration of the whole department is that aside from lakes and parks we have additions and betterments amounting to only $21,007.51.

In his fireside radio chats Governor Davey has painted misleading pictures and laughed at the gullibility of sportsmen. If we support him for reelection we are gullible.

EGG MARATHON ON FOR PICKED HENS OF LAND

STORRS, Conn. (UP)—One of the country's oldest marathons is the egg-laying contest at Connecticut State College, now in its 26th year.

In the fall of every year, hundreds of hens settle into their nests in the poultry husbandry department's modern electrified and air-conditioned pens. Entries are received from over all parts of the country, and the college has captured records year after year.

Each contestant enters 10 hens, and 10 alternates. The hens of each entrant are housed in separate pens, equipped with wire nests, automatic watering and four windows each. Eggs are collected daily, graded and a chart kept of progress. At the end of 365 days the final scoring is announced.

This year there are 1,300 hens competing from 13 states. Seven breeds are entered, including anconas, barred rocks, white wyandottes, Rhode Island reds, New Hampshires and white leghorns.

SYMBOL OF A TRAGIC ERA

A news report from Miami Beach tosses the memory back to an era of American history which, although it dates but a few years ago, seems to belong to a far distant past, before civilization had begun to make progress and when ideals and customs of life were primitive.

The report tells of the United States Government's plans to sell at auction next month the big white villa on Palm Island, with tiled swimming pool and extensive grounds running down to Biscayne Bay, that once was the home of Al Capone.

It was here that one of the country's most notorious criminals lived—a young man who dealt in murder, in robbery, in all forms of corruption. He lived in a setting of grandeur, with an army of servants and bodyguards, and he entertained his friends in lavish style. Although a known criminal, a corrupter of police, courts and other agencies of law and justice, he lived for years, like a robber baron in his stronghold, beyond restraint or punishment.

Looking back upon that dark past from the vantage point of a more enlightened day, it seems almost unbelievable that Capone and others of his breed were once dominant influences in the national life, that they flourished unmolested by law and produced a reign of terror.

The fact that all of this is in the past and that major gangsters are either with Capone in Alcatraz or under the sod with Dillinger, is as important to our national life as emergence from the depression.

VERMONT'S SPEED LAW

DETERMINED to join in the nationwide crusade for highway safety, Vermont has introduced a new speeding law. Motorists must not exceed 45 miles an hour under any conditions. The penalty for violation is immediate suspension of the driver's license.

It is to be doubted whether the plan will get results. Speed in itself is not always an accident hazard. There are some circumstances, indeed, wherein it is actually safer than snailish driving.

Recklessness, when linked with excessive speed, is thoroughly objectionable. But even here the punishment should be determined by flagrant disregard of the rights of others rather than by the precise number of miles per hour.

However, Vermont's experiments will be watched with interest in all parts of the country. It at least promises to make the motoring public accident conscious, and to that extent may tend to curb the wild highway performances of drivers otherwise lacking all sense of restraint and moderation.

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

It was loyal and self-abnegating in Secretary of State Cordell Hull to deny all credit for his international trade policy, and to give credit to President Roosevelt.

But it wasn't overly accurate. I am not sure just how long it is since Secretary Hull first outlined to me his philosophy of international trade and financial relationships. However, it was when he was in the house of representatives. In the meantime he has served a term in the senate and nearly four years in the cabinet. Thus it was a decade or one and a half at the least calculation.

It was the same philosophy, to a "T", that he has put into practice in the state department.

LONG PREACHED BY HULL
Hull did not acquire it from the present White House tenant either. Long before Franklin D. Roosevelt was a considerable figure in public life Cordell Hull was preaching the doctrine that national prosperity is dependent upon international prosperity.

At the height of the American post-war boom period Hull was warning that a crash was inevitable unless commercial barriers between the countries were leveled, or at least lowered. After the crash had occurred he still warned that permanent recovery was impossible without a modification in these same barriers.

HULL WINS OUT
This was prior to Roosevelt's administration.

When the New Yorker came into presidential office Hull reaffirmed his position, which was, in effect, repudiated in the Roosevelt inaugural address.

"First things first," was the Rooseveltian motto—American prosperity initially; then worry about the rest of the world. No American can find fault with this theory if it is practically workable. For some while President Roosevelt stood pat that it is, as per his inaugural address. Secretary Hull stood pat that it isn't—through much official tribulation.

Finally Hull has had his way with some qualifications—and there HAS been some improvement. And prospect of more of it.

HULL WINS THEN
Well, the other day James P. Warburg, big New York banker, came out for Roosevelt.

He originally was a Democrat. He flopped from Roosevelt, disliking New Deal methods. Now he has flopped back. He likes Roosevelt now better than ever he did, he says, but Secretary of State Hull is his ideal of an economist; he will vote for Hull, not for Roosevelt.

There are other Roosevelt bolers (Dean Acheson is notable among them) who announce that they will cast Democratic ballots because of Hull; not Roosevelt.

GENEROSITY?

Secretary Hull's declaration that President Roosevelt invented his international policy has left these folk (of the Warburg and Acheson type) out on a limb.

The policy was Hull's. But, because it proved to be a good thing, Hull is generous enough or perhaps he has political reasons, to hand over the benefit to Roosevelt.

"SOLD" IT TO PRESIDENT?
This story to an extent is a repetition of one I wrote a few days ago dealing with Hull's cabinet record.

At the time of that writing, however, Hull had not yet spoken of himself as a mere follower of the president in all his activities in the state department. Of course the president was acquiescent or the secretary could not have gone ahead with his program.

But certainly it was not the Rooseveltian program on inauguration day, as anyone can learn by a rereading of his address, and just as certainly it had been Hull's for years prior to that.

Obviously Hull "sold" it to the president.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

TRANSIENTS REAL 'FORGOTTEN MEN'

WASHINGTON—Much is being said by both major parties about unemployment relief, but there is one group of unfortunates that has not even been mentioned.

They are transient jobless—homeless men, women, and children, the real forgotten men—numbering between 200,000 and 300,000.

Until a year ago they were included in the federal relief program, but when the Works Progress Administration was set up they were turned back on the states and communities. Most of these units, already over-burdened with financial difficulties, set the transients adrift.

During the spring and summer they wandered over the highways eking out an existence in their own mysterious manner. But with winter coming on they are heading south in great numbers.

The southern states can't take care of them, and bluntly don't want them. Reports reaching WPA officials from Florida and other popular winter resorts tell of barriers being put up at county lines to prevent the influx of impoverished transients.

WPA authorities are fully aware of the poignant transient problem, but under the President's work-relief policy have no funds to do anything about it. A large proportion of these wanderers are youths and come within the employable category. But they are unable to get WPA jobs because they have no fixed residence, and local relief officials have more than enough on their hands finding work for their own needy idle.

The U. S. Mayors Conference has had some informal discussions about the matter. It is considering a proposal to ask the next Congress to include funds in the 1937 relief appropriation for a revival of the abandoned federal transient aid system.

SQUELCHER

Randolph Churchill, son of the arch-Tory ex-Chancellor of the British Exchequer, covered the President's New England campaign trip for a London newspaper.

The Britisher bombarded the American correspondents with an incessant flow of praise for conditions in England, contending that the English were much wiser and abler in dealing with public problems.

The reporters seethed inwardly as this went on for hours, but out of courtesy to a foreign colleague said nothing openly. But at last one U. S. newsman could contain himself no longer. He broke into one of the Englishman's monologues with the sudden query:

"Say, Church, what is your honest opinion—has the King really fallen for Mrs. Simpson?"

The question went unanswered. Churchill kept his peace for the remainder of the tour.

Paul Poirer, once a de trop Parisian dressmaker, is now tending a bar. He appears to have remembered his tour of the U. S. during prohibition, when so many needle-workers were in the beer trade.

DIET AND HEALTH

Physician and Dentist Co-operate in Treatment

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IT IS ONE of the cheering signs of our times that the teeth have been recognized to be the cause of systemic disease, and that systemic disease is recognized to be the cause of dental trouble.

Twenty-five or thirty years ago, largely because these were two separate professions of dentistry and medicine, these relations were not recognized. Your dentist may have been on social speaking terms with your doctor, but he was not on professional speaking terms. In other words, he went his way, fixing up your teeth without asking the doctor about it, and the doctor tried to treat diseases without ever looking at the teeth.

This is true no longer. The dentist properly regards himself as a physician specializing on the teeth, and the physician asks for dental consultation quite as often as he does any other kind. Joint meetings between medical societies and dental societies are regular features of any winter's scientific program. I have before me two papers, one written by a physician on dental problems, and one written by a dentist on the systemic causes of dental disease. Both of these were read before a joint society of physicians and dentists.

The physician of 25 years ago knew about as much about the teeth as the average citizen. He knew that an aching tooth usually had to be pulled. He pulled the temporary teeth of his own children at the proper moment, taking care to place a quarter of a dollar under the pillow at night in order to co-operate with the fairies. He obtained the best and latest toothbrushes and dentifrices and used them. Nowadays he endeavors to see that his children get a protective diet in order to make their teeth tough. The physician was a little ahead of the average citizen, because he learned the date of eruption of the temporary as well as the permanent teeth.

Knows More

Nowadays he knows all this and more, and is striving to co-operate with the dentist in a campaign of prevention rather than simply of restorative and replacement procedures. In this field I believe American dentistry and medicine are far ahead of the rest of the world, as American dentistry always has been. Our cousins of the British Isles are still far behind us in everything that has to do with the teeth. As one soldier said to another during the World War after his day of leave, "I just kissed the prettiest girl in Scotland, and she had a full set of teeth—one above and one below."

A physician who is looking at teeth must think of vitamin deficiencies, such as scurvy, which might cause spongy gums and dental caries. He must also think of certain diseases of the ductless glands, such as overproduction of the growth hormone, and of those deficiencies of the pituitary gland which result in under-development of the organs of mastication, and of diseases or infections which lower the general vitality. He must think of heavy metal poisoning by mercury, lead, bismuth, copper, radium and radio-active substances, which have been taken for purposes of treatment or by accidental poisoning in other ways. He must think of various blood diseases. And in certain regions of the country he must think of water, which might possibly contain excessive fluorine, which has the power of depositing collars of bone around the teeth and causing a peculiar mottling of the enamel.

FLOWERS AT HER FEET

By MARIE BLIZARD

CHAPTER 31

ALIX, back in Bairdsdale at last, was being driven by Bill Boyd to the house where she was to live. "Bill! Oh, no, they didn't put up an opinion on the Elliott ground! I remember that place from the time I was only a baby and mother used to always play at the June concert for the Congregational church." Alix was getting a new perspective of her home town.

"More people coming into Bairdsdale every year, you know," said Bill. "It's getting to be a trading center and the mills are doing well. Need more good homes as wealth comes in."

It was getting dark and lights winked at her from the houses set back from the streets.

Alix felt emotional, with a new kind of emotion, as she saw the familiar landmarks.

"I'm sorry for people who have no home town to go back to," she said more to herself than to Bill.

"There are plenty of folk here who will be anxious to see you," he said before Alix realized that she had none of her own people to welcome her. "My dad wants you to come to supper tomorrow night if you can."

Bill said supper. He was like that. No "airs" from him. Supper in the Boyd home was a leisurely meal served in a high-ceilinged room at a table beautifully appointed and perfectly served in the candlelight.

"Oh, Bill, I'd love to," she answered gratefully.

"He wanted me to bring you tonight but I said you'd be tired."

"I am," she said wearily, spent not with the fatigue of travel but the strangeness of all this.

"Then, Margie King—she married Cyril Flount—says she wants you to call her up as soon as you can. And the Birney twins—say, you'd never know them now for they're skinny as rails and they used to be like butterballs—will be around to call as soon as you want them."

By the time they drove up before Miss Ellis' house, Alix was glad for the darkness that enveloped them. Alix didn't want Bill to see the warm tears that spilled out of her eyes. She touched them with the finger of her white doekin glove. She hadn't thought she could feel that way, that she could feel at all. John Sayre was far away from her now but she didn't let herself think of him.

The spotless white of Miss Ellis' house showed its wide, generous proportions, the cupolas and turrets against the dark sky. A mellow yellow light winked from the door with welcoming warmth.

The door was flung open as they approached and Alix's first view of her new home showed a wide hall with a mahogany rail outlining the circular curve of a white staircase. Then she saw the carved chair, the grandfather's clock, the sampler on the wall and the worn Persian rug on a gleaming floor.

Silhouetted against this background was the tall, lean, black taffeta-clad figure of Miss Lizzie Ellis, blinking kindness from behind her steel-rimmed glasses; her cordial smile belling the severity of her tautly drawn black hair in its hard little knot at the back.

"Here's your boarder. This is Alix, Miss Lizzie."

Alix started to say, "I'm so glad to meet you, Miss Ellis..." And stopped. She remembered Miss Lizzie!

"Well, Alix, you haven't changed a bit. Do you still like gingerbread with whipped cream?"

"I still do," Alix said, remembering Miss Lizzie. She'd never known her by any other name. "And the hot apple pie?"

"And me saying 'I ain't right for a little girl to eat hot apple pie' and you saying, 'My mother always insists on giving it to me hot.'"

They both laughed at that. Bill watched them for a few minutes and twisted his hat around in his hand.

"Well, I guess I'll go along and let you two girls get together. Alix, have a good sleep and in the morning telephone me when you get up. I'll take you down to Miss Alexander's."

Then he left.

"This is your room," Miss Lizzie led Alix into the big room at the second floor front.

"Now you hang up your things and come right down and get a bite to eat. You must be near starved. Your bathroom is right next door and there isn't anybody else to use it because there's just you and me and Hattie—that's the hired girl—and she sleeps upstairs."

Alix said she was hungry and meant it for the first time in many months.

She ate a generous portion of chicken pie and didn't refuse the gingerbread and whipped cream that was only one of three desserts.

She sat back contented, well-fed, and regarded her hostess.

"Miss Lizzie," she said, "there must be some mistake about my—er—your—board. Bill said it would be—"

"Eight dollars a week. Now if that's too much, you just say so. I asked my cousin Ella and she said she thought that was plenty. We aren't New York you know."

"It isn't that it's too much," Alix said hastily, "but it seems so little for that beautiful room and this good food."

"Allie, it isn't the money at all. It gets lonesome here alone all the time and it'll be mighty pleasant having someone come in every day, having someone to worry about like you were my own girl. When Will Boyd told me you were coming, I asked him if he knew where you were going to stay and he said he was looking for a boarding house and I said right away I wanted you to come here."

"Oh, thank you, Miss Lizzie, I'll be as little trouble to you as possible."

"Don't you worry about that. If you were like some girls, I wouldn't know what to do. Those Jasper girls—guess you don't remember them—have their mother waiting on them hand and foot and Mrs. Jasper is none too good a housekeeper. There's one of those Jasper girls who..."

Alix didn't want Miss Lizzie to talk too much. Bill had warned her about that.

She said, looking at the clock, "It's after nine and I'm terribly tired. I think I'll get a good sleep tonight."

At last she was alone. She undressed and put on a warm woolly robe and settled her things. Her clothes—her trunk hadn't come yet—were hardly noticeable in the great closet. Her silk things she put in the drawers of a highboy. She arranged her toilet articles on the biggest dresser she had ever seen and then she climbed into a four-posted mahogany bed where she relaxed. The softness permeated her body and she basked in the fragrance of lavender.

There was a light over her bed. She left it on, shutting off the others and propped herself up on her pillows to look around the big comfortable room.

It was nothing less than luxurious. It was a good room. It was her home now. No more small bedrooms in a little apartment on the East river. No more anything that went with all that.

It was Bairdsdale now and the house on Pine street. And a new job at $18 a week and fresh Aprils and other Octobers until time was done and she was a maiden lady like Miss Lizzie, living in a big house, glad to have a boarder, "someone to wait for."

She contemplated that future and was a little surprised that it didn't hurt as much as she had thought. It was as though the very air here, the things she saw and heard, worked a curious alchemy in her, separating her from the things she had felt yesterday. If it would always be this way, she would be happy.

The grandfather's clock in the hall below struck a single note, nine-thirty.

Alix switched off her light and, as she began to sink into immediate sleep, heard a footstep on the porch and a doorbell ring somewhere.

A knock at her door brought her back to consciousness.

"Allie?" Miss Lizzie stood in the door, a book in hand. "I guess you aren't asleep, are you?"

"No, come in."

"I can't do that. Too late. Will Boyd just stopped by with this book. Said he got to thinking maybe it being strange and all you might not be able to get to sleep." She put the book on the bed.

"Oh, how nice!"

"Nice for you! I don't know what Dorcas Hill'd think about him dancing attendance on you like he's going to unless I miss my guess."

Alix was too sleepy to ask her what Dorcas Hill had to say about it.

Lepord Coat is Favorite Of the Collegiate Set

By LISBETH

LEOPARD CAT is a fur much favored by the college group. The fur has color and warmth, making it essentially a youthful pelt, although there is no reason at all why older women—who are slender enough to carry it—should not wear it.

The wrap pictured is worn by Shirley Deane, screen player, and is in three-quarters length. It is a baby leopard and is as practical as it is beautiful for any outdoor event, like the football game, and just as effective and appropriate worn over a charming dinner gown.

In choosing a leopard coat, be sure that the color is clear and tawny, and the spots distinct, small and close together.

Leopard is very effective used for trimming. A coat of black wool with a very full skirt is made stunning with an upstanding leopard collar, cuffs and the ends of its sash. It is equally effective as a trimming for suits, as we can testify after seeing a black wool suit with snow leopard collar and pocket trim.

A favorite fur of the present season is gray Persian, both for trimming cloth coats and for the fur wrap. Gray is particularly smart this season. It lends itself well to various color schemes. It looks well with black accessories, but is even more lovely with bright colored ones—the reds, blues, violets, etc.

The fur hat and fur trimming for hats started last year, but have gained more favor with the better dressmakers this. Chic chapeaus to match the fur coats are frequently seen. Muffs are with us again, bigger and better than ever, and are especially nobby when accompanying a fine fur cape.

tives and friends, the happy pair left for a short wedding trip.

On their return they will reside at 1123 Second street, Portsmouth, where Mr. Graves is connected with the Graves Transfer Company of Chillicothe, Portsmouth and Huntington, W. Va.

The Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will meet in the club rooms Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. All members are urged to attend.

Monday Club Meeting

In the regular meeting of the Monday club, held last evening, Miss Margaret Rooney, Miss Emily Yates and Mrs. Orion King, were elected the student aid committee for the club year 1936-1937.

The vacancy in chairmanship of the program committee made by the resignation of Mrs. Bishop Given was filled by the election of Mrs. Ray Davis.

The president, Mrs. Fred Grininger, presided with the Art division of which Mrs. Cay L. Hitler is chairman, having the program. In the study of this year's work on Scandinavia, Miss Martha Mader in a paper "Representative Art: Sculpture, Painting and Architecture," followed the fine arts as they flourished among these peninsular neighbors.

The first thing that impresses the student of Scandinavian art is the frequency with which one meets the human forms. The numerous relics of ancient times bear witness to the high peasant culture, possessed by Sweden thousands of years before the Christian Era. The finely shaped swords and the spiral ornaments on buckles and on shield plates of the Bronze Age reveal the presence of artistic taste and skilled peasant home. The people as a whole developed such a craving for beauty in their homes that they desired every common place object to be beautiful. Development of their interest in crafts started with a patriotic pride in the beauty of handmade objects used in farm homes of long ago.

At the Grand Paris International Exhibit of Decorative Arts in 1925, Sweden won 35 grand prizes, 46 gold medals and many lesser ones.

The taste of the nations has been educated so the people look for "Art Quality" in their purchases.

BIERMAN OPTIMISTIC

Kizer Must Rebuild After Minnesota Debauch

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 27—(UP)—Coach Elmer Layden put Notre Dame through a heavy workout in preparation for Ohio State.

Andy Puplis, quarter, Vic Wojciehowski, right half; Capt. John Lauter, guard; Joe Zwiers, end and Steve Miller, fullback, were on the injured list but may play.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 27—(UP)—It appeared that sophomores again would carry the brunt of the attack when Ohio meets Notre Dame Saturday. Coach Francis Schmidt praised work of Alex Schoenbaum, Carl Kaplanoff, John Raab, Howard Wedebrook and Mike Kabealo.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 27—(UP)—Minnesota opened its preparations for Northwestern with a stiff workout today. Coach Bernie Bierman was optimistic for the first time this season. Referring to the Wildcat game, he said: "If we get by this one we'll be set. And I think we can get by this one if the boys keep coming."

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 27—(UP)—Northwestern went through a dummy scrimmage working on new plays designed for Minnesota. Cleo Diehl, end, left the injured list and will be available for the Gopher tilt. Coach Lynn Waldorf concentrated on what he believed to be the weakest spot—left halfback—held down by either Clancy Hinton or Vernie Jefferson, negroes.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 27—(UP)—Coach Noble Kizer started to rebuild a Purdue team weakened greatly by injuries. Bill Vergane, veteran end, probably will be out the rest of the season from a knee injury aggravated in the Minnesota game; Fred Stalcup, varsity back, will be out two more weeks; George Spehn and Don Powell, ends, both suffered knee injuries.

All American Roll Call

Jack Robbins
Arkansas

PASSING through the list of southwest backfield candidates, don't forget that great passer of Arkansas—Jack Robbins, who said to be even better than Sammy Baugh of Texas Christian.

Last year as a sophomore, Jack tossed 95 passes for a total gain of 1,219 yards. He played in every game, did all the quarterbacking and most of the punting. He's even better this season, Jack is from Little Rock.

OAKLEY TURNER IS MAINSTAY OF CAPITAL SQUAD

COLUMBUS, Oct. 27—A leader in everything, is what Oakley Turner, Atlanta junior at Capital University, is turning out to be. Besides being president of the junior class, and a star actor in the forthcoming "Journey's End" at Capital, Turner again has proven himself a stellar guard in the Purple and White eleven. A letterman from last year, he has proved to be one of Coach Bernlohr's remaining pillars from his conquering tide of last year.

Capital has won out over Hiram and Kenyon, tied with Bowling Green, and lost to Marietta, leaving a 66 per cent average on the fair side of the tally. Next Saturday Capital will meet one of its toughest opponents of the year when Heidelberg plays on Capital field. The remaining game on the home field will be Nov. 14 when Capital meets its traditional foe, Otterbein, for the Homecoming game.

Turner, enrolled in the Arts-Sciences course, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Turner of Atlanta, Ohio.

Strange Title Suit Won

SALINAS, Cal. (UP)—Louis Hill, president of the Great Northern Railroad, has won a title suit to a lot here against Tiburcia Vasquez. The suit was won by default, the defendant not appearing, having been hanged here on March 19, 1875.

PUNT AND PASS DRILLS PLANNED AT OHIO STATE

COLUMBUS, Oct. 27—(UP)—The deadly toe of Andy Pilney and the accurate right arm of Bill Shakespeare were the dominant factors that led to Notre Dame's 18 to 13 triumph over Ohio State a year ago.

It was Pilney's kicking which repeatedly pulled the Irish out of bad holes and kept them in the thick of the ball game and it was Shakespeare's pass to rugged Wayne Miller that capped the thrilling fourth quarter rally of the Ramblers.

Saturday an Ohio State team will go to South Bend in an attempt to revenge the defeat that cost them a share in the national mythical championship a year ago and Coach Francis A. Schmidt hopes to send Elmer Layden's proteges reeling into defeat by the same mediums which accounted for the Bucks downfall.

The punt and the pass will be the keynote of the Bucks preparation as they start their intensive drills today.

Against Indiana last week the sophomore Mike Kabealo demonstrated uncanny ability to kick to "coffin corner." The Youngstown boy kicked out of bounds once on Indiana's five yard stripe and again on the Hoosiers' nine.

Kabealo's kicking has improved steadily this season and Schmidt believes his punting will prove a vital part of the Bucks play Saturday.

For the first time this season, Ohio's passing was inferior to its running attack in the game with the Hoosiers. The usually reliable Tippy Dye consistently passed over the heads of his receivers.

C. C. OF A. WINS TWO IN THREE FROM DAIRY 5

Container Corporation won two bowling games in three Monday evening from the Circle City Dairy. The match was rolled on the C. C. A. alleys.

The strawboard crew tallied 871 in the first game, Vanatta's 215 being the big score. The Dairy won the second, but the strawboarders eked out a 10-pin margin in the final with Elkins and Vanatta finishing strong with 189 and 184.

Claim Jumping Revived

WINNEMUCCA, Cal. (UP)—Mining has again become so profitable that plans are underway here for the organization of an old time "vigilantes" organization to prevent claim jumping and the destruction of location monuments.

Weed Show Held

PASADENA, Cal. (UP)—The city's latest contribution to the encouragement of natural beauty is a Weed Show. Prizes are awarded to those showing the most artistic results from teaching weeds how to grow.

Life Owed to Belt Buckle

BOSTON (UP)—Robert Mino's belt buckle saved his life. Mino, an Oakland, Cal., carnival worker, was shot by a bandit. The bullet struck the buckle, ricocheted, and made only a superficial wound in his side.

About This And That In Many Sports

Rabbits for Hunters

A move to increase the number of rabbits available for hunters on Ohio's fields was made Monday by Larry Woodell, state conservation commissioner—He announced 35,000 rabbits would be purchased for $18,500 to be placed in restricted areas—Woodell believes the rabbits will soon overrun their areas into shooting grounds. ***

Buck Grads Pros

Numerous ex-Ohio State grid-ders are engaged in the professional sport on various gridirons—Ted Rosequist is with the Chicago Bears, Regis Monahan with the Detroit Lions, Gomer Jones, Buzz Wetzel, Max Padlow with the Cleveland team, Jim Karcher with the Pittsburgh Pirates. ***

Irish Losses Many

When it is taken into consideration that Notre Dame lost Bill Shakespeare, Wayne Miller, Frankie Gaul, Andy Pilney, Mike Layden, and a bunch of other star grid-ders, several of whom were instrumental in the defeat of the Ohio Staters last year, it is difficult to see where enough replacements could be obtained to balance the loss—However, Elmer Layden has a good ball club and will give Ohio a battle—The Bucks, especially since the discovery of John Rabb, Alex Schoenbaum, Carl Kaplanoff, and improvement in the play of Mike Kabealo, are given the nod against the South Benders. ***

Gridiron Notes

Some notes: Dick Beltz, whose fumble is blamed for losing the Ohio-Notre Dame game last year, is another OSU grad on the Pittsburgh team, and so is Bob Snyder, great kicker from Ohio U.—In 18 seasons Charley Cartledge at Steubenville has not lost his opening game and only once has his crew been scored on—Dayton Steele recently set a record by completing 18 consecutive forward passes against Roosevelt, home town foe—Joe Morbito, East Liverpool grid coach, scouts during the week-ends for Carnegie Tech—He is a Tech grad and ex-full-back there. ***

GOPHER ELEVEN 2 TO 1 CHOICE OVER WILDCATS

BY UNITED PRESS
Bernie Bierman's Minnesota Gophers were 2-1 favorites today to subdue Northwestern Saturday in the headline grid attraction. This tilt between the middle west's two perfect teams probably will decide whether Minnesota will wear the national championship crown for the third successive year and the outcome of the Big Ten conference, but it will have to vie for attention with three other feature games.

Fordham's unmarred record is in danger as Pitt, conqueror of Ohio State and Notre Dame, invades New York; Marquette, angling for a Rose Bowl bid, tangles with the Gaels of St. Mary's at Chicago; and Auburn, held to a tie by Tulane encounters Santa Clara, only undefeated-untied team on the Pacific coast, at San Francisco.

Already the Gopher-Wildcat game is a sell-out.

TITLE CLAIMANTS MEET

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27—(UP)—Two men with claims on the world featherweight championship clash here tonight for the right to meet a third claimant to the same title, Henry Armstrong of Los Angeles, recognized by California as champion, and Mike Beloise, the New York-recognized champion, meet in a 10-round bout at Olympic auditorium. The winner is scheduled to clash with Petey Sarron, national boxing association champ in the same division.

SCOTT'S SCRAPBOOK

by R. J. SCOTT

CONTRACT BRIDGE

THE BIG THRILL

TO EVERY lover of bridge the big thrill is fulfilling a difficult contract, whether that happens to be a slam or only a part game. Determining the best method of play, estimating probable distributions of suits and locating missing cards of importance is what makes the game most worth while. Here is such a hand which I recently had to play, sitting North.

♠ A Q 10 7
♥ A J 5 2
♦ J 6 3
♣ J 3

♠ 9 4 2
♥ K 10 7 4
♦ J 9
♣ 8 7 5 2

♠ K 8 5
♦ A K 10 8 4
♣ A Q 10 4

Bidding went: South, 1-Diamond; North, 1-Spade; South, 2-Clubs; North, 2-Hearts; South, 3-Spades; North, 3-No Trumps; South, 6-Spades, which certainly was going some.

The opening lead was the 2 of spades. Dummy's 8 was played. West's J covered and lost to the Q. More often than not, two of six missing cards will be found in one hand, with four in the other. If trumps broke that way, unless four club tricks could be made, things were none too favorable. The first thing to do was to try the clubs. The J of clubs was led, finessed and lost to the K. West led back a low spade. My Ace won the trick, dropping East's 4, but not telling where the 9-6 were. The 3 of clubs was led, and the Ace and 10 were taken. On the last, club trick I let go one of my low diamonds.

The Ace and K of diamonds were led. One defender or the other would be able to ruff the next diamond lead. Dummy's lowest diamond was led. West's Q covered. I had to ruff with the 10, to shut out the 9, if East held it. East let go his lowest heart. My last trump was led. East's 9 was picked up with dummy's K, and West also followed suit, fortunately. That was the ninth trick. Of course the remaining tricks were a spread: 2 diamond tricks in dummy and the good Q of clubs, with my own Ace of hearts.

The hand would not have played nearly as well as it did, due to an opening attack in hearts, of which dummy held a singleton and which I could stop only once. Our best efforts at no trumps would have yielded a bare game. Defenders must have won three tricks in hearts and one club trick. That lone heart in dummy might have been an asset at the trump call, but at no trumps it would have been an element of weakness. No trump calls seldom are desirable when the supporting hand contains a singleton.

Squirrels Steal Milk

YOUNGSTOWN, O. (UP) — Squirrels that like milk have been playing hob with breakfast cream on doorsteps of a residential section. Householders have caught the animals sinking their top teeth in the edge of bottle caps, removing them and drinking as much of the cream as they can reach.

PITTSBURGH, (UP) — University of Pittsburgh students may travel in foreign countries now. At least they have passport photos. As part of the registration procedure this year, every student was photographed. Small prints of each picture were made and have been affixed to student identification cards.

TESTS START NOV. 5 IN COUNTY FOR TEMPORARY AUTO PERMIT HOLDERS

STATE HIGHWAY MEN, OFFICERS ASSIGNED TASK

All Persons Lacking Year As Motorist, Others Disabled Affected

LAW EFFECTIVE NOV. 1

Regular Dates Established For Examinations

Examinations for temporary driving permit holders, under the Ohio drivers' license law, will begin Nov. 2.

Pickaway county motorists will be examined at the police station on the first and third Tuesdays of the month, except that the first inspection will be on Thursday, Nov. 5, because of the election.

State highway patrolmen and city police will co-operate in conducting the oral and physical tests. The highway patrol has been assigned the task of conducting the examinations in the smaller communities, while the city police will carry forward this week in the cities.

Persons holding the temporary permits, those lacking the necessary year's driving experience and those with physical disabilities, must take the tests before they can be issued a regular driving license.

Two million Ohio motorists have been licensed and 700,000 more must qualify before the deadline November 1.

The local drivers' license bureau has issued approximately 5,000 licenses and expects to issue about 1,000 more before the deadline Nov. 1.

ELECTORAL VOTE OF FOUR STATES SOUGHT IN TOUR

Wilmington Address Seen As Sign Roosevelt Has Chance in East

return to his train Mr. Roosevelt will then head for Wilmington where a rear platform address is scheduled. From that city he will return to Washington for the night.

Speaks Friday, too
The big push for the vote of greater New York will begin Friday and continue until late Saturday night. The president will speak Friday night from the stage of the Academy of Music in Brooklyn.

The next evening the final major speech will be delivered in Madison Square Garden.

When Mr. Roosevelt leaves Friday he will not return to Washington until after the election. He will spend the week-end at the summer White House at Hyde Park, N. Y., remaining there to vote and receive the returns.

With members of his family he will cast his ballot in the polling booth set up in the assembly room of the little clapboard structure that serves as the town hall for the village of Hyde Park.

As he made ready to invade the New York that in previous elections has given him handsome majorities, Democratic political leaders were predicting that the metropolitan area next Tuesday will give at least a 1,000,000 majority. They argued that such a figure would place the state safely "in the bag."

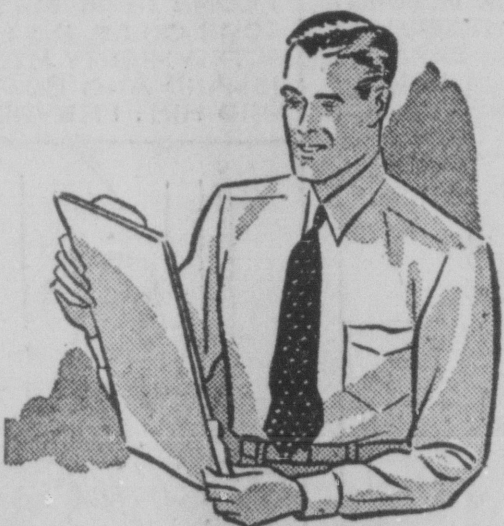

Keen interest was also attached to the president's projected visit into Delaware, which four years ago gave its electoral votes to Herbert Hoover. The fact that Mr. Roosevelt has decided to speak in Wilmington was taken as an indication that the Democratic hopes of winning are high.

BOARDS AWAIT OFFICIAL WORD OF PWA GRANTS

Bulkeley Wires C. H. May Of $36,900 Allowed For School Work

MEETINGS NEXT WEEK

Educators, Aware of Crowded Conditions, Anxious

Members of the city board of education and the county commissioners are awaiting official word from PWA headquarters concerning grants for the additions to the high school building and the courthouse.

Although the grants were announced Monday afternoon in Washington by Public Works Administrator Harold Ickes no official information has been sent either of the boards.

Meet Next Week

Both boards expect to meet the grants at their next regular meetings. The commissioners meet next Monday and the board of education meets next Tuesday night.

Educators, those persons who know more about the overcrowded conditions of the high school and Corwin street buildings, are in favor of immediate action. Charles H. May, chairman of the board of education, said the board would study all requirements and other "strings" closely before embarking on the project.

The commissioners were informed of the grant for the new courthouse addition through The Herald. Mr. May learned the school grant in a telegram from Senator Robert J. Bulkeley.

Bond Issue Voted

The PWA granted $36,900 for the school addition to cost about $82,000. The city has approved a bond issue sufficient for the balance of the work.

A grant of $23,000 was made for the courthouse addition estimated at $51,550.

Stan's Face a Bit Grimmer Now

THAT funny man of the movies, Stan Laurel, half the team of Laurel and Hardy, is even more serious looking as he appears in Los Angeles court with his wife Virginia, in an attempt to settle their marital difficulties. The comedian asked for a divorce and his wife asked for $1,235 a month separate maintenance. She says he earns $200,000 a year, but he says he has many expenses.

Mrs. Simpson Granted Divorce in 10 Minutes

IPSWICH, England, Oct. 27.—(UP)—(By Trans-Atlantic Telephone)—Mrs. Ernest Simpson, American friend of King Edward VIII, was granted a swift divorce, in the small, dingy Ipswich court today.

Mrs. Simpson accused her husband of infidelity. She appeared with witnesses and eminent lawyers before Mr. Justice Sir Anthony Hawke, presented the brief evidence necessary and a decree nisi was handed down immediately.

The public was barred from the courtroom at the last minute. It can be made absolute in six months, or even somewhat sooner in exceptional circumstances.

Mrs. Simpson then will be free to marry. The vivacious American's friendship with the king has caused endless talk of the possibility that she might become his bride.

The divorce was granted at 2:38 p. m., scarcely ten minutes after court opened.

Norman Birkett, attorney for Mrs. Simpson, asked the court if it was a decree nisi with costs against Simpson and Justice Hawke replied:

"I suppose so."

The name of the co-respondent was not revealed, although she was named in the petition.

The charge presented by counsel for Mrs. Simpson said that: "Ernest Simpson stayed with a woman at the Hotel De Paris at Bray in Berkshire on the night of July 21, 1936."

Evidence was given by two waiters who testified that they took breakfast to the bedroom of Simpson and the unnamed woman on the mornings of July 22 and 23, 1936, where they saw Ernest Simpson and a woman.

Granting of her divorce may be expected to increase the flow of speculation in exclusive circles over the possibility of a marriage to the king.

The general public is not aware of the gossip and the papers have imposed a rigid censorship on themselves.

However, if the talk does become general knowledge, there may be much resentment over the possibility of the king marrying a twice-divorced woman. Mrs. Simpson previously was granted a divorce from Lieut. Wingfield Spencer Jr., at Warrenton, Va., in December, 1927, charging her husband with desertion and non-support.

4,000 Listen At Howard U. to Plea for Races

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(UP)—President Roosevelt concentrated the final phase of his campaign today on a drive to capture the electoral votes of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Delaware.

Armed with half a dozen "fighting speeches," he will leave tonight to begin a speaking tour that will take him into the four states claimed by Republicans for Gov. Alf M. Landon.

In his first address to an all-Negro audience since the beginning of the campaign, Mr. Roosevelt yesterday told 4,000 persons at a dedication of a chemistry building at Howard university, that "there should be no forgotten men and no forgotten races."

He described the building, erected by the Public Works Administration at a cost of $626,000, as "the happy conjunction of two important federal government programs to meet the difficulties of the depression."

To Statute of Liberty

Mr. Roosevelt, aboard his campaign special, will move into New Jersey first, stopping at Bayonne, a strong industrial center. There he will board a ferry to Bedloe's Island in New York harbor to participate in exercises commemorating the Statue of Liberty.

Although White House attaches insist his address will be "non-political," some close friends believe he will set forth again the objectives of his administration's foreign policies as a reply to Gov. Landon.

After a full day in New York Mr. Roosevelt will entrain for a whirlwind tour through Pennsylvania. Cheered by reports from Sen. Joseph Guffey that he would carry Pennsylvania by 250,000 he arranged to canvass the mining areas and Philadelphia.

At Wilkes Barre Thursday the president will join in a ceremony honoring the memory of John Mitchell, one of the early miners' union leaders. From that city he will go to Harrisburg to elaborate on his Omaha farm speech before turning eastward for Philadelphia, Camden, N. J., and Wilmington, Del.

He will motor from Philadelphia to Camden and deliver a brief speech at the latter place. On his (Continued on Page Eight)

TWO ARMED MEN FLEE UNDER FIRE NEAR CINCINNATI

CINCINNATI, Oct. 27.—(UP)—Two men escaped today under fire of Hamilton county police after they had been surprised on a country road in an automobile that authorities described as "a rolling arsenal."

Police investigated the possibility that one of the men may have been Al Brady, Indiana desperado. Police believed they had wounded both men.

Two women companions and a 16-year-old youth, alleged accomplices of the pair, were held in jail. Two girls who pointed out the automobile to police were released.

The sheriff's office was notified that two men, two women, two girls and a boy were in a suburban inn and that the men were "shooting up the place." When Deputy Albert Fischer arrived at the place, they had gone but there were several bullet holes in the floor, and a broken table.

Refused More Drinks

Clarence Flick, the proprietor, said the shooting started when he refused to serve them more drinks. Fischer said he found the two girls who said they had been thrown from the automobile. One of the girls said her shoe had been nicked by a bullet. They said one of the men told them he was George Daffron of Indianapolis.

Later the girls pointed the gunmen's car out to officers. The occupants were ordered out. While County Patrolmen John Schulte and Anthony Minda were frisking the men, the women walked between them and the officers. Then the two men made a break. The officers did not fire immediately for fear of hitting the women or the boy.

Hays Named in Charge Of Security Act Work

Cards To Be Mailed To All Persons Eligible Under Federal Law

RETURN TO POSTOFFICE

Old Age Benefit Program Effective January 1

Postmaster A. Hulse Hays was given another duty, Tuesday, when the Social Security Board announced his designation as head of the old age benefit enrollment in the area served by the Circleville postoffice. Application cards will soon be sent to all persons employed in commerce and industry who in turn will be required to file the cards at the postoffice.

Although the security board announced his appointment, Mr. Hays has not yet received notice of the action.

Each applicant will be issued an enrollment card giving his name and number. A record card to show amounts each person is paying in jointly with his employer toward old age pension at 65 years of age will be made out in the postoffice and sent to Social Security Board headquarters.

To Concern Eligibles

Insofar as possible, distribution of cards will be only among eligible persons, avoiding agricultural, domestic, civil and non-profit religious and charitable organization employees. Substitute carriers and clerks will be used as much as possible for the enrollment.

The Social Security Board plans to have the distribution cards well underway by Nov. 15, although it may not start until a little later in some localities due to the problem involved in distributing millions of such cards through the nation's postoffices.

The deadline for filing cards is January 1, the date old age benefits payroll tax becomes effective. This is the tax, half paid by employer and half by employee, provided in the federal Social Security Act.

AMERICAN SHIP ENDANGERED BY ATLANTIC GALE

DUBLIN, Ireland, Oct. 27.—(UP)—Fierce gales whipping the Irish sea to dangerous fury held the United States lines vessel American Shipper helpless at noon today at her temporary anchorage in the shelter of a cove off Dublin with 22 passengers aboard.

The situation of the vessel caused rising concern where as tugs sent to her rescue were forced to return to Dublin, less than five miles from where the ship rode the mountainous waves at anchor.

The ship, her rudder out of commission in the high storm, was towed to her anchorage during the height of the gale which has kept her a mercy for more than 36 hours. Officials of the line, however, said the ship was in no immediate danger.

Abatement of the heavy seas running with the wind was awaited by tugboats, which again will go to her relief as soon as they can be of assistance and tow her either into Dublin for repairs or take her to her dock at Liverpool.

WORKERS TOLD FORD TO CANCEL PART CONTRACTS

Complaint Reported From Timken Bearing Co. in Columbus

GLAVIS SENT TO STATE

Landon's Election Sought by Manufacturer

While no outright coercion of voters has taken place in Circleville, so far as is known, at least one company is putting Republican campaign material into the pay envelopes of all employees.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(UP)—The senate campaign committee ordered inquiry today into charges that Ohio workers were told that Henry Ford, Michigan industrialist and supporter of Gov. Alf M. Landon, would cancel orders for automobile parts if President Roosevelt was re-elected.

A complaint to the committee charged political coercion of employees. The Ford assertion allegedly was made to employees of the Timken Roller Bearing Co., at Columbus, O.

The Ohio charges marked the fourth state in which the committee has revealed its activities have been extended. Previously inquiries have been made in Maine, Pennsylvania and Michigan.

Glavis in State

The committee ordered Chief Investigator Louis R. Glavis to examine the Ohio situation to determine whether similar tactics were being pursued by other employers.

Investigators are already in the field in Ohio, the committee said, and the charges are being referred to the justice department.

The complaint said that company employees at the Columbus meeting were informed that if Gov. Landon was not elected the company's plan would close.

The employees were told, the announcement added, that policies being pursued by the Democratic administration were permitting the importation of bearings from abroad which would ruin the company's business.

"This policy no doubt will be followed by other business officials in this district and in other parts of the country," the complaint was quoted as saying in the committee statement.

To Determine Law

The committee plans to take no action other than to refer the complaint to the department of justice to determine whether federal or state laws have been violated, the announcement concluded.

LONDON TO PLAY SPOILS SYSTEM IN TALK TODAY

Pittsburgh Is Scene Of Next Major Speech By Nominee

"MACHINE" ATTACKED

Madison Square Garden Ends Eastern Swing

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 27 (UP).—Gov. Alf M. Landon led the Republican offensive against the New Deal into this industrial center today for a major address expected to play the administration on charges of having shackled the United States with a vast spoils system.

Backing up his accusation at Philadelphia last night that President Roosevelt must assume responsibility for unconstitutional waste of the people's money to create a "sinister political machine," the Republican presidential nominee planned to assail the tactics of Democratic Chairman James A. Farley tonight in his final bid for Pennsylvania's 36 electoral votes.

It was understood that what his aides termed "Farleyism" would be the chief point of the Kansas governor's attack, coupled with his own pledge to improve and extend civil service to virtually every branch of the government.

In striking into Pittsburgh, Governor Landon approached the climax of his campaign for the presidency—an appearance at New York's Madison Square Garden Thursday night for a final summation of the issues of the 1936 contest before he turns back toward Kansas to cast his vote.

The nominee was declared by party leaders as greatly impressed by the demonstrations which have greeted him in the midwest and on his swing through the eastern states; and as confident that victory was within the grasp of the Republican party.

2,000 VISITORS ATTRACTED BY CRAFT EXHIBIT

Over 2,000 Pumpkin Show visitors attended the attractive exhibit of the National Guildcrafters, held in Memorial Hall last week. The Cincinnati chapter of the organization sponsored the exhibit, which was arranged in the relic room on the second floor.

Fascinating articles all hand made by craftsmen in many parts of this country, and in Europe, filled the room with much of interest to men, women and children. Registration of persons interested in the Home Study training course and the club membership plan, evidenced a wide scope of attraction for the work from rural districts and Springfield, Williamsport, Columbus, Lancaster, Marietta, Pittsburgh, Washington, C. H., Chillicothe and Cincinnati, Urbana, Ashville, Martinsville, Kingston, Mt. Sterling and Laurelville.

In addition to this contribution of Guildcraft products to the Pumpkin Show—man of the Cincinnati chapter members and sponsors were represented in the Fine Arts cash prize contest. Among those winning prizes are: Iola Wentworth, Ted Steele, Ann Denman, Betty Colville, Emily Gunning and Ruth Robinson.

Persons in attendance at the booth from Columbus included Mrs. Wilma Pusecker, Columbus craftsman, Mrs. E. M. Denton, Mr. W. Hal Marshall and Mr. Karl S. Bolander from the home office.

VOICE ...of the... PEOPLE

October 26, 1936 TO THE EDITOR:

In your issue of the Circleville Herald on Tuesday, October 20, 1936, there appeared in the columns of your newspaper a letter purporting to be signed by a 'Sportsman'. Being the oldest member in point of service of the League of Ohio Sportsmen in Pickaway county, I was naturally attracted to the letter and read it very carefully. A reading of the letter immediately disclosed that it was not a letter but merely a verbatim copy of one of the many Davey propaganda pamphlets that had been sent out through the State of Ohio by one of his appointees. The contents of the pamphlet are not true and that perhaps is the reason the so-called 'Sportsman' refused to sign his name to it.

'Sportsmen' generally are well aware of the way they were double crossed by Mr. Davey; the Governor, in his campaign two (2) years ago promised to call a conference of the leading conservationists and be guided by their advice in the selection of a conservation commissioner. He called such a meeting, but instead of taking the advice of leading conservationists he merely introduced "The Next Conservation Commissioner".

Mr. Davey promised to take the Conservation Commission out of the hands of politicians, but on the contrary the pay roll has been loaded with political appointees and the hunters' and fishermen's money has been squandered. The following is a statement of the disbursement of the hunters' and fishermen's money. The total receipts for the year 1935 amounted to $512,201.87. Out of this income $357,971.64 was used for salaries and wages; $70,039.09 was used for traveling expenses; $36,204.86 was used for automobiles and automobile equipment; making a total of $464,215.59. You can readily see that $47,986.28 was the amount left for propagation of fish and game. Another thing that most sportsmen are not familiar with is this. When Mr. Davey assumed office the Conservation Commission had a credit balance of $613,-

45.66. The balance a year later was only $379,007.02. They spent $234,353.74, more than they took in. The total expenditures for 1935 amounted to $650,213.60. At this rate the half million dollars accrued credits will be gone at the end of this year. And the sad fact about the administration of the whole department is that aside from lakes and parks we have additions and betterments amounting to only $21,007.51.

In his fireside radio chats Governor Davey has painted misleading pictures and laughed at the gullibility of sportsmen. If we support him for reelection we are gullible.

Sincerely
CHARLES E. ROOF

SYMBOL OF A TRAGIC ERA

A news report from Miami Beach tosses the memory back to an era of American history which, although it dates but a few years ago, seems to belong to a far distant past, before civilization had begun to make progress and when ideals and customs of life were primitive.

The report tells of the United States Government's plans to sell at auction next month the big white villa on Palm Island, with tiled swimming pool and extensive grounds running down to Biscayne Bay, that once was the home of Al Capone.

It was here that one of the country's most notorious criminals lived—a young man who dealt in murder, in robbery, in all forms of corruption. He lived in a setting of grandeur, with an army of servants and bodyguards, and he entertained his friends in lavish style. Although a known criminal, a corrupter of police, courts and other agencies of law and justice, he lived for years, like a robber baron in his stronghold, beyond restraint or punishment.

Looking back upon that dark past from the vantage point of a more enlightened day, it seems almost unbelievable that Capone and others of his breed were once dominant influences in the national life, that they flourished unmolested by law and produced a reign of terror.

The fact that all of this is in the past and that major gangsters are either with Capone in Alcatraz or under the sod with Dillinger, is as important to our national life as emergence from the depression.

VERMONT'S SPEED LAW

DETERMINED to join in the nationwide crusade for highway safety, Vermont has introduced a new speeding law. Motorists must not exceed 45 miles an hour under any conditions. The penalty for violation is immediate suspension of the driver's license.

It is to be doubted whether the plan will get results. Speed in itself is not always an accident hazard. There are some circumstances, indeed, wherein it is actually safer than snailish driving.

Recklessness, when linked with excessive speed, is thoroughly objectionable. But even here the punishment should be determined by flagrant disregard of the rights of others rather than by the precise number of miles per hour.

However, Vermont's experiments will be watched with interest in all parts of the country. It at least promises to make the motoring public accident conscious, and to that extent may tend to curb the wild highway performances of drivers otherwise lacking all sense of restraint and moderation.

World At A Glance

It was loyal and self-abnegating in Secretary of State Cordell Hull to deny all credit for his international trade policy, and to give credit to President Roosevelt.

But it wasn't overly accurate.

I am not sure just how long it is since Secretary Hull first outlined to me his philosophy of international trade and financial relationships. However, it was when he was in the house of representatives. In the meantime he has served a term in the senate and nearly four years in the cabinet. Thus it was a decade or one and a half at the least calculation.

It was the same philosophy, to a "T," that he has put into practice in the state department.

LONG PREACHED BY HULL
Hull did not acquire it from the present White House tenant either.

Long before Franklin D. Roosevelt was a considerable figure in public life Cordell Hull was preaching the doctrine that national prosperity is dependent upon international prosperity.

At the height of the American post-war boom period Hull was warning that a crash was inevitable unless commercial barriers between the countries were leveled, or at least lowered. After the crash had occurred he still warned that permanent recovery was impossible without a modification in these same barriers.

HULL WINS OUT
This was prior to Roosevelt's administration.

When the New Yorker came into presidential office Hull reaffirmed his position, which was, in effect, repudiated in the Rooseveltian inaugural address.

"First things first," was the Rooseveltian motto—American prosperity initially; then worry about the rest of the world. No American can find fault with this theory if it is practically workable.

For some while President Roosevelt stood pat that it is, as per his inaugural address. Secretary Hull stood pat that it isn't—through much official tribulation.

Finally Hull has had his way with some qualifications—and there HAS been some improvement. And prospect of more of it.

HULL WINS THEN
Well, the other day James P. Warburg, big New York banker, came out for Roosevelt.

He originally was a Democrat. He flopped from Roosevelt, disliking New Deal methods. Now he has flopped back. He likes Roosevelt now better than ever he did, he says, but Secretary of State Hull is his ideal of an economist; he will vote for Hull, not for Roosevelt.

TRANSIENTS REAL 'FORGOTTEN MEN'

WASHINGTON—Much is being said by both major parties about unemployment relief, but there is one group of unfortunates that has not even been mentioned.

They are transient jobless—homeless men, women, and children, the real forgotten men—numbering between 200,000 and 300,000.

Until a year ago they were included in the federal relief program, but when the Works Progress Administration was set up they were turned back on the states and communities. Most of these units, already over-burdened with financial difficulties, set the transients adrift.

During the spring and summer they wandered over the highways eking out an existence in their own mysterious manner. But with winter coming on they are heading south in great numbers.

The southern states can't take care of them, and bluntly don't want them. Reports reaching WPA officials from Florida and other popular winter resorts tell of barriers being put up at county lines to prevent the influx of impoverished transients.

WPA authorities are fully aware of the poignant transient problem, but under the President's work-relief policy have no funds to do anything about it. A large proportion of these wanderers are youths and come within the employable category. But they are unable to get WPA jobs because they have no fixed residence, and local relief officials have more than enough on their hands finding work for their own needy idle.

The U. S. Mayors Conference has had some informal discussions about the matter. It is considering a proposal to ask the next Congress to include funds in the 1937 relief appropriation for a revival of the abandoned federal transient aid system.

SQUELCHER

Randolph Churchill, son of the arch-Tory ex-Chancellor of the British Exchequer, covered the President's New England campaign trip for a London newspaper.

The Britisher bombarded the American correspondents with an incessant flow of praise for conditions in England, contending that the English were much wiser and abler in dealing with public problems.

The reporters seethed inwardly as this went on for hours, but out of courtesy to a foreign colleague said nothing openly. But at last one U. S. newsman could contain himself no longer. He broke into one of the Englishman's monologues with the sudden query:

"Say, Church, what is your honest opinion—has the King really fallen for Mrs. Simpson?"

The question went unanswered. Churchill kept his peace for the remainder of the tour.

Paul Poirot, once a de trop Parisian dressmaker, is now tending a bar. He appears to have remembered his tour of the U. S. during prohibition, when so many needle-workers were in the beer trade.

DIET AND HEALTH

Physician and Dentist Co-operate in Treatment

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
IT IS ONE of the cheering signs of our times that the teeth have been recognized to be the cause of systemic disease, and that systemic disease is recognized to be the cause of dental trouble.

Twenty-five or thirty years ago, largely because there were two separate professions of dentistry and medicine, these relations were not recognized. Your dentist may have been on social speaking terms with your doctor, but he was not on professional speaking terms. In other words, he went his way, fixing up your teeth without asking the doctor about it, and the doctor tried to treat diseases without ever looking at the teeth.

This is true no longer. The dentist, properly regarding the teeth, is a physician specializing on the teeth, and the physician asks for dental consultation quite as often as he does any other kind. Joint meetings between medical societies and dental societies are regular features of any winter's scientific program. I have before me two papers, one written by a physician on dental problems, and one written by a dentist on the systemic causes of dental disease. Both of these were read before a joint society of physicians and dentists.

The physician of 25 years ago knew about as much about the teeth as the average citizen. He knew that an aching tooth usually had to be pulled. He pulled the temporary teeth of his own children at the proper moment, taking care to place a quarter of a dollar under the pillow at night in order to co-operate with the fairies. He obtained the best and latest toothbrushes and dentifrices and used them. Nowadays he endeavors to see that his children get a protective diet in order to make their teeth tough. The physician was a little ahead of the rest of the world, as American dentistry always has been. Our cousins of the British Isles are still far behind us in everything that has to do with the teeth. As one soldier said to another during the World War after his day of leave, "I just kissed the prettiest girl in Scotland, and she had a full set of teeth—one above and one below."

A physician who is looking at teeth must think of vitamin deficiencies, such as scurvy, which might cause spongy gums and dental caries. He must also think of certain diseases of the ductless glands, such as overproduction of the growth hormone, and of those deficiencies of the pituitary gland which result in under-development of the organs of mastication, and of diseases or infections which lower the general vitality. He must think of heavy metal poisoning by mercury, lead, bismuth, copper, radium and radio-active substances, which have been taken for purposes of treatment or by accidental poisoning in other ways. He must think of various blood diseases. And in certain regions of the country he must think of water, which might possibly contain excessive fluorine, which has the power of depositing collars of bone around the teeth and causing a peculiar mottling of the enamel.

Nowadays he knows all this and more, and is striving to co-operate with the dentist in a campaign of prevention rather than simply of restorative and replacement procedures. In this field I believe American dentistry and medicine are far ahead of the rest of the world, as American dentistry always has been. Our cousins of the British Isles are still far behind us in everything that has to do with the teeth. As one soldier said to another during the World War after his day of leave, "I just kissed the prettiest girl in Scotland, and she had a full set of teeth—one above and one below."

FLOWERS AT HER FEET By MARIE BLIZARD

CHAPTER 31
ALIX, back in Bairdsdale last, was being driven by Bill Boyd to the house where she was to live.

"Bill! Oh, no, they didn't put up an apartment on the Elliot grounds! I remember that place from the time I was only a baby and mother used to always play at the June concert for the Congregational church." Alix was getting a new perspective of her home town.

"More people coming into Bairdsdale every year, you know," said Bill. "It's getting to be a trading center and the mills are doing well. Need more good homes as wealth comes in."

It was getting dark and lights winked at her from the houses set back from the streets.

Alix felt emotional, with a new kind of emotion, as she saw the familiar landmarks.

"I'm sorry for people who have no home town to go back to," she said more to herself than to Bill.

"There are plenty of folk here who will be anxious to see you," he said before Alix realized that she had none of her own people to welcome her. "My dad wants you to come to supper tomorrow night if you can."

Bill said supper. He was like that. No "airs" from him. Supper in the Boyd home was a leisurely meal served in a high-ceilinged room at a table beautifully appointed and perfectly served in the candlelight.

"Oh, Bill, I'd love to," she answered gratefully.

"He wanted me to bring you tonight but I said you'd be tired."

"I am," she said wearily, spent not with the fatigue of travel but the strangeness of all this.

"Then, Margie King—she married Cyril Flount—says she wants you to call her up soon as you can. And the Birney twins—say, you'd never know them now for they're skinny as rails and they used to be like butterballs—will be around to call as soon as you want them."

By the time they drove up before Miss Ellis' house, Alix was glad for the darkness that enveloped them. Alix didn't want Bill to see the warm tears that spilled out of her eyes. She touched them with the finger of her white doeklin glove. She hadn't thought she could feel that way, that she could feel at all. John Sayre was far away from her now but she didn't let herself think of him.

The spotless white of Miss Ellis' house showed its wide, generous proportions, the cupolas and turrets against the dark sky. A mellow yellow light winked from the door with welcoming warmth.

The door was flung open as they approached and Alix's first view of her new home showed a wide hall with a mahogany rail outlining the circular curve of a white staircase. Then she saw the carved chair, the grandfather's clock, the sampler on the wall and the worn Persian rug on a gleaming floor.

Silhouetted against this background was the tall, lean, black

Lepord Coat is Favorite Of the Collegiate Set

By LISBETH
LEOPARD CAT is a fur much favored by the college group. The fur has color and warmth, making it essentially a youthful pelt, although there is no reason at all why older women—who are slender enough to carry it—should not wear it.

The wrap pictured is worn by Shirley Deane, screen player, and is in three-quarters length. It is a baby leopard and is as practical as it is beautiful for any outdoor event, like the football game, and just as effective and appropriate worn over a charming dinner gown.

In choosing a leopard coat, be sure that the color is clear and tawny, and the spots distinct, small and close together.

Leopard is very effective used for trimming. A coat of black wool with a very full skirt is made stunning with an upstanding leopard collar, cuffs and the ends of its sash. It is equally effective as a trimming for suits, as we can testify after seeing a black wool suit with snow leopard collar and pocket trim.

A favorite fur of the present season is gray Persian, both for trimming cloth coats and for the fur wrap. Gray is particularly smart this season. It lends itself well to various color schemes. It looks well with black accessories, but is even more lovely with bright colored ones—the reds, blues, violets, etc.

The fur hat and fur trimming for hats started last year, but have gained more favor with the better dressmakers this. Chic chapeaux to match the fur coats are frequently seen. Muffs are with us again, bigger and better than ever, and are especially nobby when accompanying a fine fur cape.

On their return they will reside at 1123 Second street, Portsmouth, where Mr. Graves is connected with the Graves Transfer Company of Chillicothe, Portsmouth and Huntington, W. Va.

The Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will meet in the club rooms Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. All members are urged to attend.

Monday Club Meeting
In the regular meeting of the Monday club, held last evening, Miss Margaret Rooney, Miss Emily Yates and Mrs. Orion King, were elected the student aid committee for the club year 1936-1937.

The vacancy in chairmanship of the program committee made by the resignation of Mrs. Bishop Given was filled by the election of Mrs. Ray Davis.

The president, Mrs. Fred Grimmer, presided with the Art division of which Mrs. Gay L. Hitler is chairman, having the program. In the study of this year's work on Scandinavia, Miss Martha Mader in a paper "Representative Art: Sculpture, Painting and Architecture" followed the fine arts as they flourished among these peninsular neighbors.

The first thing that impresses the student of Scandinavian art is the frequency with which one meets the human forms. The numerous relics of ancient times bear witness to the high peasant culture, possessed by Sweden thousands of years before the Christian Era. The finely shaped swords and the spiral ornaments on buckles and on shield plates of the Bronze Age reveal the presence of artistic taste and skilled craftsmanship in the early centuries.

During the middle ages and the renaissance art in Denmark remained hardly more than a feeble reflection of the art of larger countries. The Danish painters exercised no definite influence in any one of the foreign art centers, although the great Danish sculptor, Thorvaldsen, made a greater contribution to the artistic history of the world than all the other Scandinavians together.

The new Norway that achieved independence in 1814, saw the foundation of its judicial and political freedom; thus the history of modern Norwegian art covers only a century; yet within that century the Norwegian painter has nevertheless been able to place himself on even terms, not alone with his peninsular neighbors, but fully abreast of the broader current of continental artistic development.

In "Handicraft and Glassware," Mrs. John H. Dunlap, Jr., illustrated her subject with a display of hand-wrought silver, glassware and textile fancy work.

The Swedish people always have understood how to make worthy use of leisure time and appreciate the fact that the joy of creating things with the hand is one of the greatest satisfactions. One of the most remarkable examples of Swedish crafts is the wall hanging or painted picture native to the peasant home. The people as a whole developed such a craving for beauty in their homes that they desired every common place object to be beautiful. Development of their interest in crafts started with a patriotic pride in the beauty of handmade objects used in farm homes of long ago.

At the Grand Paris International Exhibit of Decorative Arts in 1925, Sweden won 35 grand prizes, 46 gold medals and many lesser ones. The taste of the nations has been educated so the people look for "Art Quality" in their purchases.

BIERMAN OPTIMISTIC

Kizer Must Rebuild After
Minnesota Debacle

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 27—(UP)—Coach Elmer Layden put Notre Dame through a heavy workout in preparation for Ohio State.

Andy Puplis, quarter, Vic Wojcihovski, right half, Capt. John Lauter, guard; Joe Zwiers, end and Steve Miller, fullback, were on the injured list but may play.

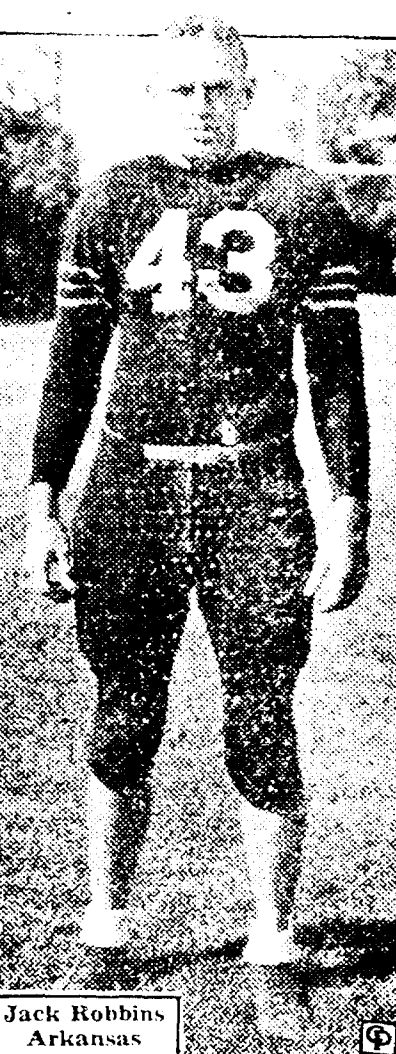

COLUMBUS, Oct. 27—(UP)—It appeared that sophomores again would carry the brunt of the attack when Ohio meets Notre Dame Saturday. Coach Francis Schmidt praised work of Alex Schoenbaum, Carl Kaplanoff, John Raab, Howard Wedebrook and Mike Kabealo.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 27—(UP)—Minnesota opened its preparations for Northwestern with a stiff workout today. Coach Bernie Bierman was optimistic for the first time this season. Referring to the Wildcat game, he said: "If we get by this one we'll be set. And I think we can get by this one if the boys keep coming."

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 27—(UP)—Northwestern went through a dummy scrimmage working on new plays designed for Minnesota. Cleo Diehl, end, left the injured list and will be available for the Gopher tilt. Coach Lynn Waldorf concentrated on what he believed to be the weakest spot—left halfback—held down by either Clancy Hinton or Vernie Jefferson, negroes.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 27—(UP)—Coach Noble Kizer started to rebuild a Purdue team weakened greatly by injuries. Bill Vergane, veteran end, probably will be out the rest of the season from a knee injury aggravated in the Minnesota game. Fred Stalcup, varsity back, will be out two more weeks; George Spehn and Don Powell, ends, both suffered knee injuries.

All American Roll Call

Jack Robbins
Arkansas

PASSING through the list of southwest backfield candidates, don't forget that great passer of Arkansas—Jack Robbins, who said to be even better than Sammy Baugh of Texas Christian.

Last year as a sophomore, Jack tossed 95 passes for a total gain of 1,219 yards. He played in every game, did all the quarterbacking and most of the punting. He's even better this season, Jack is from Little Rock.

OAKLEY TURNER IS MAINSTAY OF CAPITAL SQUAD

COLUMBUS, Oct. 27—A leader in everything, is what Oakley Turner, Atlanta junior at Capital University, is turning out to be. Besides being president of the junior class, and a star actor in the forthcoming "Journey's End" at Capital, Turner again has proven himself a stellar guard in the Purple and White eleven. A letterman from last year, he has proved to be one of Coach Bernlohr's remaining pillars from his conquering tide of last year.

Capital has won out over Hiram and Kenyon, tied with Bowling Green, and lost to Marietta, leaving a 66 per cent average on the fair side of the tally. Next Saturday Capital will meet one of its toughest opponents of the year when Heidelberg plays on Capital field. The remaining game on the home field will be Nov. 14 when Capital meets its traditional foe, Otterbein, for the Homecoming game.

Turner, enrolled in the Arts-seminary course, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Turner of Atlanta, Ohio.

Strange Title Suit Won

SALINAS, Cal. (UP)—Louis Hill, president of the Great Northern Railroad, has won a title suit to a lot here against Tiburcia Vasquez. The suit was won by default, the defendant not appearing, having been hanged here on March 19, 1875.

PUNT AND PASS DRILLS PLANNED AT OHIO STATE

COLUMBUS, Oct. 27—(UP)—The deadly toe of Andy Pilney and the accurate right arm of Bill Shakespeare were the dominant factors that led to Notre Dame's 18 to 13 triumph over Ohio State a year ago.

It was Pilney's kicking which repeatedly pulled the Irish out of bad holes and kept them in the thick of the ball game and it was Shakespeare's pass to rugged Wayne Miller that capped the thrilling fourth quarter rally of the Ramblers.

Saturday an Ohio State team will go to South Bend in an attempt to revenge the defeat that cost them a share in the national mythical championship a year ago and Coach Francis A. Schmidt hopes to send Elmer Layden's protégés reeling into defeat by the same mediums which accounted for the Bucks downfall.

The punt and the pass will be the keynote of the Bucks' preparation as they start their intensive drills today.

Against Indiana last week the sophomore Mike Kabealo demonstrated uncanny ability to kick to "coffin corner." The Youngstown boy kicked out of bounds once on Indiana's five yard stripe and again on the Hoosiers' nine.

Kabealo's kicking has improved steadily this season and Schmidt believes his punting will prove a vital part of the Bucks play Saturday.

For the first time this season, Ohio's passing was inferior to its running attack in the game with the Hoosiers. The usually reliable Tippy Dye consistently passed over the heads of his receivers.

C. C. OF A. WINS TWO IN THREE FROM DAIRY 5

Container Corporation won two bowling games in three Monday evenings from the Circle City dairy. The match was rolled on the C. C. A. alleys.

The strawboard crew tallied 871 in the first game, Vanatta's 215 being the big score. The Dairy won the second, but the strawboarders eked out a 10-pin margin in the final with Elkins and Vanatta finishing strong with 189 and 184.

About This And That In Many Sports

Rabbits for Hunters

A move to increase the number of rabbits available for hunters on Ohio's fields was made Monday by Larry Wooddell, state conservation commissioner. He announced 35,000 rabbits would be purchased for bad holes and kept them in the thick of the ball game and it was Shakespeare's pass to rugged Wayne Miller that capped the thrilling fourth quarter rally of the Ramblers.

Buck Grads Pros

Numerous ex-Ohio State grid-ers are engaged in the professional sport on various grids—Ted Rosequist is with the Chicago Bears, Regis Monahan with the Detroit Lions, Gomer Jones, Buzz Wetzel, Max Padiow with the Cleveland team, Jim Karcher with the Pittsburgh Pirates. ***

Irish Losses Many

When it is taken into consideration that Notre Dame lost Bill Shakespeare, Wayne Miller, Frankie Gaul, Andy Pilney, Mike Layden, and a bunch of other star grid-ers, several of whom were instrumental in the defeat of the Ohio Staters last year, it is difficult to see where enough replacements could be obtained to balance the loss. However, Elmer Layden has a good ball club and will give Ohio a battle. The Bucks, especially since the discovery of John Rabb, Alex Schoenbaum, Carl Kaplanoff, and improvement in the play of Mike Kabealo, are given the nod against the South Benders. ***

Gridiron Notes

Some notes: Dick Beltz, whose fumble is blamed for losing the Ohio-Notre Dame game last year, is another OSU grad on the Pittsburgh team, and so is Bob Snyder, great kicker from Ohio U. In 18 seasons Charley Cartledge at Steubenville has not lost his opening game and only once has his crew been scored on—Dayton Steele recently set a record by completing 18 consecutive forward passes against Roosevelt, home town foe—Joe Morbito, East Liverpool grid coach, scouts during the week-ends for Carnegie Tech. He is a Tech grad and ex-fullback there. ***

GOPHER ELEVEN 2 TO 1 CHOICE OVER WILDCATS

BY UNITED PRESS
Bernie Bierman's Minnesota Gophers were 2-1 favorites today to subdue Northwestern Saturday in the headline grid attraction.

This tilt between the middle west's two perfect teams probably will decide whether Minnesota will wear the national championship crown for the third successive year and the outcome of the Big Ten conference, but it will have to vie for attention with three other feature games.

Fordham's unmarred record is in danger as Pitt, conqueror of Ohio State and Notre Dame, invades New York; Marquette, angling for a Rose Bowl bid, tangles with the Gaels of St. Mary's at Chicago; and Auburn, held to a tie by Tulane encounters Santa Clara, only undefeated-untied team on the Pacific coast, at San Francisco.

Already the Gopher-Wildcat game is a sell-out.

TITLE CLAIMANTS MEET
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27—(UP)—Two men with claims on the world featherweight championship clash here tonight for the right to meet a third claimant to the same title. Henry Armstrong of Los Angeles, recognized by California as champion, and Mike Beloise, the New York-recognized champion, meet in a 10-round bout at Olympic auditorium. The winner is scheduled to clash with Pety Sarron, national boxing association champ in the same division.

PICKAWAY

Marquette Outstanding in Midwest

CHICAGO, Oct. 27—(UP)—Marquette's ambitious golden avalanche began rolling today to make its premier bid for national fame through the back door in a flood-lit intersectional game with the Galloping Gaels of St. Mary's at Soldier field Friday night.

Although the crack Milwaukee eleven doesn't meet a single Rose Bowl contender or Big 10 challenger, it does clash with teams that whipped great teams and an undefeated season will mean left-handed recognition throughout the nation.

Marquette already has earned a position among the monarchs of the midwest with convincing victories over Wisconsin, St. Louis, Kansas State and Michigan State. More than 50,000 were expected to watch them play the Gaels from the California coast.

SCOTT'S SCRAPBOOK

CONTRACT BRIDGE

TO EVERY lover of bridge the big thrill is fulfilling a difficult contract, whether that happens to be a slam or only a part game. Determining the best method of play, estimating probable distributions of suits and locating missing cards of importance is what makes the game most worth while. Here is such a hand which I recently had to play, sitting North.

The J of clubs was led, fished and lost to the K. West led back a low spade. My Ace won the trick, dropping East's 4, but not telling where the 9-8 were. The 3 of clubs was led, and the Ace and 10 were taken. On the last club trick I let go one of my low diamonds.

The Ace and K of diamonds were led. One defender or the other would be able to ruff the next diamond lead. Dummy's lowest diamond was led. West's Q covered. I had to ruff with the 10, to shut out the 9, if East held it. East let go his lowest heart. My last trump was led. East's 9 was picked up with dummy's K, and West also followed suit, fortunately. That was the ninth trick. Of course the remaining tricks were a spread: 2 diamond tricks in dummy and the good Q of clubs, with my own Ace of hearts.

The hand would not have played nearly as well at no trumps, due to an opening attack in hearts, of which dummy held a singleton and which I could stop only once. Our best efforts at no trumps would have yielded a bare game. Defenders must have won three tricks in hearts and one club trick. That lone heart in dummy might have been an asset at the trump call, but at no trumps it would have been an element of weakness. No trump calls seldom are desirable when the supporting hand contains a singleton.

Bidding went: South, 1-Diamond; North, 1-Spade; South, 2-Clubs; North, 2-Hearts; South, 3-Spades; North, 3-No Trumps; South, 6-Spades, which certainly was going some.

The opening lead was the 2 of spades. Dummy's 8 was played. West's J covered and lost to the Q.

More often than not, two of six missing cards will be found in one hand, with four in the other. If trumps broke that way, unless four club tricks could be made, things were none too favorable. The first thing to do was to try

HIGH PRESSURE PETE

TESTS START NOV. 5 IN COUNTY FOR TEMPORARY AUTO PERMIT HOLDERS

STATE HIGHWAY MEN, OFFICERS ASSIGNED TASK

All Persons Lacking Year As Motorist, Others Disabled Affected

LAW EFFECTIVE NOV. 1

Regular Dates Established For Examinations

Examinations for temporary driving permit holders, under the Ohio drivers' license law, will begin Nov. 2.

Pickaway county motorists will be examined at the police station on the first and third Tuesday's of the month, except that the first inspection will be on Thursday, Nov. 5, because of the election.

State highway patrolmen and city police will co-operate in conducting the oral and physical tests. The highway patrol has been assigned the task of conducting the examinations in the smaller communities, while the city police will carry forward this week in the cities.

Persons holding the temporary permits, those lacking the necessary year's driving experience and those with physical disabilities, must take the tests before they can be issued a regular driving license.

Two million Ohio motorists have been licensed and 700,000 more must qualify before the deadline November 1.

The local drivers' license bureau has issued approximately 5,000 licenses and expects to issue about 1,000 more before the deadline Nov. 1.

ELECTORAL VOTE OF FOUR STATES SOUGHT IN TOUR

Wilmington Address Seen As Sign Roosevelt Has Chance in East

(Continued from Page One) return to his train Mr. Roosevelt will then head for Wilmington where a rear platform address is scheduled. From that city he will return to Washington for the night.

Speaks Friday, too

The big push for the vote of greater New York will begin Friday and continue until late Saturday night. The president will speak Friday night from the stage of the Academy of Music in Brooklyn.

The next evening the final major speech will be delivered in Madison Square Garden.

When Mr. Roosevelt leaves Friday he will not return to Washington until after the election. He will spend the week-end at the summer White House at Hyde Park, N. Y., remaining there to vote and receive the returns.

With members of his family he will cast his ballot in the polling booth set up in the assembly room of the little clapboard structure that serves as the town hall for the village of Hyde Park.

As he made ready to invade the New York that in previous elections has given him handsome majorities, Democratic political leaders were predicting that the metropolitan area next Tuesday will give at least a 1,000,000 majority. They argued that such a figure would place the state safely "in the bag."

Keen interest was also attached to the president's projected visit into Delaware, which four years ago gave its electoral votes to Herbert Hoover. The fact that Mr. Roosevelt has decided to speak in Wilmington was taken as an indication that the Democratic hopes of winning are high.

annual Halloween carnival to be held in the school auditorium on Thursday evening of this week. Masquers will be awarded prizes for the most unusual costumes, refreshments will be served by the committees in charge and several booths are being planned for the amusement of all who attend.

...THE GREATEST MONEY-SAVING DODGE OF THEM ALL!... THE NEW DODGE FOR 1937!

CREATING tremendous enthusiasm right across America, the sensational new Dodge for 1937 has scored another "smash hit"...is so phenomenal in economy, beauty, roominess and comfort that everyone who has seen it agrees that "millions will want to switch to this new and bigger 1937 Dodge!"

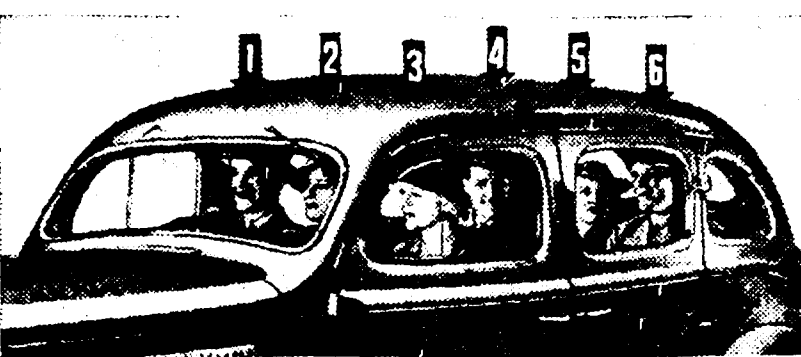

A complete unit of advanced "windstream" styling, this new car is easily the most beautiful Dodge ever built! Interiors are roomier...while improved Chair-Height seats, improved weight distribution and a new method of mounting the body on cushions of rubber to banish road noises give you a more comfortable and quieter ride than ever before!

Powered by the famous Dodge engine which owners report gives 18 to 24 miles per gallon and which is now improved and more brilliant than ever, Dodge gives you even greater all-around economy! This new Dodge also gives you an even stronger safety all-steel body with all-steel top and genuine, hydraulic brakes! Yet, with all these improvements—with all this extra value, the new 1937 Dodge costs only a few dollars more than the lowest-priced cars!

See this amazing new Dodge at our showrooms today! Drive it yourself! Then you'll understand why people are saying that "millions will want to switch to the new 1937 Dodge!"

SIX PASSENGERS RIDE COMFORTABLY IN EVERY DODGE SEDAN!

Bodies of the new 1937 Dodge are longer and wider than ever before! Front seats are now 47 inches wide...rear seats 48 1/2 inches wide...plenty of room for at least six passengers in every Dodge sedan! And for greater security Dodge gives you an even stronger safety all-steel body with all-steel top!

NEW, IMPROVED CHAIR-HEIGHT SEATS! In the new Dodge, seats are not only scientifically shaped to conform to restful body posture, but are actually "chair-height." Because the level Dodge floor is lower than in many cars, seat cushions are the right height to avoid cramping your knees...to give you plenty of leg-room...to give you real easy-chair comfort!
